This year's 3L-4R play is Cyrano de Bergerac! Cyrano, a poet with a sharp wit and even sharper rapier, never takes an insult lying down! This is especially true when it comes to his over-sized nose—a feature that makes him so self-conscious he can't manage to confess his feelings to the woman he loves. This woman, Roxane, has her eye on a handsome soldier named Christian, who also happens to be a tongue-tied dimwit in her presence. Cyrano lends Christian his beautiful words to go with the man's beautiful face, and therefore the two of them work to woo their true love. This love triangle takes a dangerous turn as enemies, war, and lies grow.

All scholars interested in participating in the play should attend an informational meeting on Thursday, September 5th during their lunch. Please bring your lunch to the meeting!

During the meeting, we will discuss various participation options, including acting roles large and small, stage crew, and set design. Scholars are not required to have an acting role, to be involved in other aspects of the play.
